

PACIFIC STEEL THE YOUNG* BUILDING CONTROL PROFESSIONAL OF THE YEAR AWARD:

Those qualifying for this award are required to be under the age of 35 years of age as of 31st December 2021.
This Award goes to an individual who reflects strong professional growth and has dedicated their time to enhancing the Building Control profession.

The nominator for this year's award winner, says she will achieve whatever she puts her mind to.

Our winner has had varied roles within the built environment ranging from trade sales, project management, and management within a design company.

It was in this later role, where she developed a fascination for Building Control – but we think she may also have had some enthusiastic support from her husband who is a builder – only she can tell us that!!

The tenacity and determination of our winner is exhibited in her commitment to undertaking the Level 6 Diploma in Building Surveying as a full-time class student – no easy feat without work exposure to the building control environment.

Not one to let obstacles get in her way, she approached the local BCA Manager to see if they could help her gain some BCA knowledge and experience – the people, the processes, and the decisions.

This was a master stroke as her drive, bright, bubbly personality, and amazing ability to quickly analyse information and relate it to legislative requirements quickly got noticed.

A few months on, this year's winner was gainfully employed within the BCA, with her manager and team members not wanting to lose someone who quickly learned from her colleagues and had an additional understanding of how designs practically work on site.

The confidence of our winner is her hallmark and her managers backed this up with an incredibly complimentary statement:

"I am very proud of what she has achieved so far and look forward to seeing her develop into a fantastic leader in our industry"

Ladies and gentlemen, please welcome:
